ABSTRACT

Program information on nine federal library programs and 76 federal library-related programs is provided for use by libraries seeking funding sources for projects which have been proposed to meet their assessed needs. A grantsmanship bibliography is included, as well as five indexes: an applicant eligibility index, an authorization index, a Catalog of Federal Domestic Assistance (CFDA) number index, a federal agency index, and a subject index. A list of state library agencies concludes the directory. (FM)

PREFACE

Libraries across the nation are undergoing a difficult period in their efforts to maintain and improve library services to their clientele. They are experiencing an increased demand for service brought about in part by changing work patterns that have created more leisure time for their patrons, and by an increasing human life span that has caused the need for an expansion of services to older readers.

Increasing demands for service are counterbalanced by decreasing budgets and by the necessity to closely examine library programs in order to reduce services wherever possible. Libraries are looking to outside funding sources in an effort to maintain and continue a substantive program of library services.

This Directory is a response to the often expressed need for a listing of Federal programs that might fund library-related projects.

I. INTRODUCTION

Federal Programs for Libraries, second edition, provides program information regarding nine Federal library programs and 76 Federal library-related programs. The Directory is a guide to sources of funding, but only a guide. It is not meant to be a complete program information source, but is only intended to lead libraries to possible funding sources for projects which are proposed to meet their assessed needs. If any program in the Directory seems to be a likely funding source for a library project, the library should immediately contact the responsible administering agency to determine if the project falls within the program scope. The library should request program guidelines, lists/abstracts of previously funded projects, a current application packet (or a previous year's packet if the filing deadline has passed), and the filing deadline for the funding cycle. A timely call or letter to the appropriate administering agency is an essential first step in the search for project funds.

Program summaries included in Section III and Section IV contain information found in: the Catalog of Federal Domestic Assistance, 1979; American Library Association's ALA Washington Newsletter, its Legislative Report of the ALA Washington Office, and its Federal Grants: Where in the Bureaucracy to Find Them; the Educational Media Yearbook; program summaries prepared by staff members of the Division of Library Programs, Office of Libraries and Learning Resources; and a number of other sources listed in Section II. Many of the programs in these Sections are currently funding, or have funded library projects. Libraries are eligible for funding under all of the included programs.

The majority of programs listed in the first edition of the Directory have been updated and included in the current edition. Programs that have been added include: Educational Information Centers (13.585); Energy Impacted Area Development Assistance Program (CFDA # pending); Energy Measures and Audits (81.052); Foreign Language and Area Studies -- Centers and International Studies Programs (13.435); Handicapped Preschool and School Programs (13.449); Promotion of the Humanities -- Museums and Historical Organizations Program (45.125); Rehabilitation Services and Facilities -- Special Projects (13.626); and Senior Community Service Employment Program (17.235).

Program changes occurred in the following program listings: Basic Skills Improvement Program (13.599) replaced the Right to Read Program (13.533) and its Inexpensive Book Distribution Program for Reading Motivation; Educational Innovation and Support Program (13.571) name was changed to Improvement in Local Educational Practice; Emergency School Aid Act -- Educational Television and Radio (13.530) was transferred to the Office of Libraries and Learning Resources; Promotion of the Arts -- Education (45.003) --Program name was changed to Promotion of the Arts -- Artists in the Schools; Promotion of the Humanities -- Higher Education Projects (45.111) incorporated the Promotion of the Humanities -- Humanities Institutes (45.120); Promotion of the Humanities -- Public Library Programs (45.137) incorporated in part the Promotion of the Humanities -- Cultural Institutions (45.117); Public Telecommunications Facilities (11.550) replaced Educational Broadcasting Facilities (13.413); and the Science Information Program (no CFDA #) name was changed to Information Science Research.

The following program listings were deleted: Higher Education Instructional Equipment (13.518); and Promotion of the Humanities -- Public Program Development (45.113).

Directory Organization. Section II of this Directory contains an annotated listing of 20 existing directories and other current/recent publications relevant to library-related funding sources. The Catalog of Federal Domestic Assistance (CFDA) is the primary listing of Federal program sources. Used in conjunction with other Section II publications, and Section III and IV program listings, the reader can obtain a good overview of library-related funding sources and specific programs available through the government. A number of Section II publications also include funding sources sponsored by the private sector.

Section III lists nine Federal programs that provide direct support for library projects. Programs are arranged alphabetically by the name of the authorizing Act. Program descriptions include the CFDA number, authorizing legislation, purpose of the program, uses to which funds may be applied, applicant eligibility requirements, the type of grant, level of funding, range of grants, average grant, application/program information source and application closing date when available.

Library-related Federal programs are listed in Section IV. Seventy-six programs are included for which libraries are eligible within the scope of each program. Programs are arranged alphabetically by program title, and program descriptions follow the format of Section III entries.

Section V is a bibliography of publications on the grants application process. It is not intended to be comprehensive but is included as a listing of publications that may be of interest and assistance to the reader as he or she develops a strategy in the search for project funding.

Federal programs included in Sections III and IV are indexed in Section VI providing a number of access points to each program. The programs are indexed by: Federal agency responsible for the program; applicant eligibility, whether State, or local government, an organization, individual, or a combination; authorization -- an alphabetical listing of authorizing Acts for the programs; CFDA number; and subject.

State library agencies are the contact source for many of the included Federal programs. Section VII is a listing of all State/Territorial library agencies.

Types of Grants. Federal assistance for library programs/projects included in this Directory falls in one of two grant categories -- formula grants to States and discretionary grants. The administering agency, information/application source, application procedure and deadline will vary depending upon the grant category of the program(s).

Formula grants to States provide support for the establishment, expansion, innovation or improvement of Library programs and not confined to ongoing support of a specific project or projects. The appropriation for which each State is eligible is determined by a formula that takes into account a number of factors (e.g.: State population, income levels, numbers of students in public and private schools). Program formulas are detailed in each program's enabling legislation and each program formula is unique. In order to qualify for a formula grant, a State agency must submit an operating plan and other required documentation to the appropriate Federal agency detailing the State's proposed participation in the program. State/local matching funds are required under a number of formula grant programs. Libraries that want to explore funding possibilities under a State formula grant should contact the administering State agency -- usually the State Library or State Department of Education. The State agency will provide information on the program, the State criteria for selection of projects, State priorities for funding, application procedures, and the applicability of the specific library project to the State's overall program plan.

Discretionary grants (or project grants) are awarded directly from the Federal government to entities of the State and local goverment, and to public and private nonprofit institutions and organizations. Discretionary programs are intended for specific grant purposes, including experimental and demonstration grants, planning grants, survey grants, technical assistance grants, construction grants, fellowships, research grants, scholarships, traineeships and training grants. Application forms and information regarding any library-related discretionary program may be obtained by contacting the responsible Federal agency.

Application Process. A considerable amount of background preparation is necessary before the application process is reached. A library or group of libraries should have completed some form of needs assessment in order to describe reasonably the present services and to project future service patterns. Desired services should have been ranked in priority order and a plan of action to develop and implement these ranked services should have been drafted. From the plan of action, one or more high priority projects may likely be identified that require developmental or demonstration funds beyond the current library/libraries budget. It is these projects that are considered in relation to appropriate outside funding sources.

An applicant should consider a number of the following steps in the application process when one or more likely funding sources have been identified for a proposed project: (1) contact the administering agency to determine the scope of their program and whether the proposed project falls within the scope; (2) discuss preapplication and application procedures and request necessary application forms; (3) find out the deadline date for submission of the application; (4) ask if there are any restrictions on use of program funds; (5) find out the range and average grant for a project; (6) request program guidelines (including legislated program rules and regulations), annotated lists of recently funded projects, and any other program material that would be of use in drafting and submitting a proposal; (7) find out if there are program matching requirements, and if so, whether cash or in-kind contributions are required; (8) ask if there are renewals or extensions of applications and the procedures involved; (9) follow all requirements of the program prior to and in submitting the application; (10) ask the administering agency for assistance whenever there is any question regarding the program or the application procedure -- applicants may telephone, write or visit the agency office directly to initiate the application process; and (11) above all, mail or deliver the application before the deadline date. Applications postmarked after the mailing date or hand delivered to the agency after the deadline date will not be considered for funding in that funding cycle.

This Directory has attempted to include all Federal programs for which libraries are currently eligible. There may be, however, programs that were missed or programs that were listed about which the reader has some question regarding appropriateness of the program(s) for library-related projects. We welcome comments on any aspect of this Directory -- types of information included, omissions, Directory organization, indices to the programs, among other things. We want to make future editions of the Directory as useable and useful as possible. Please send your comments to:

II. LIBRARY FUNDING SOURCES DIRECTORIES/PUBLICATIONS

There are a number of useful funding source directories and other publications that are directly or indirectly relevant to libraries and library services. This Section provides an annotated listing of 20 publications that will prove helpful to librarians who are searching for project funding support.

In conducting a systematic search of Federal programs, the first source to examine is the Catalog of Federal Domestic Assistance (CFDA).

Catalog of Federal Domestic Assistance, 1979. Office of Management and Budget. Loose leaf. Washington, D.C., Government Printing Office, annual with periodic revision, $20.00.

The Catalog is the most comprehensive listing of available Federal programs covering 1,078 Federal assistance programs administered by 57 Federal agencies. For each program included, the Catalog lists: the responsible Federal agency; program authorization; program objectives; types of assistance provided; uses and program use restrictions; applicant eligibility requirements; the application/award process (including a description of preapplication coordination, the application procedure, the award procedure, application deadlines, range of approval/disapproval notification time, appeals and renewals); assistance considerations (including formula and matching requirements); post assistance requirements (including requirements for reports, audits and records); financial information; program accomplishments; appropriate regulations and guidelines; information contacts; and related programs contained within the Catalog.

Federal programs are arranged in the Catalog by Department/Agency, numerically by CFDA number. Programs of possible interest to the user may be identified through examination of one or more of eight separate indices: an agency program index; applicant eligibility indices for individuals, for local governments, for State governments, and for nonprofit organizations and institutions; a functional index; a popular name index; and a subject index.

Six appendices provide very useful information both to the person searching for appropriate funding sources and to the grantee who is conducting a federally-funded project. The appendices identify Federal agency policy circulars applicable to given programs; program authorization; abbreviations and acronyms; agency regional and local office addresses; additional sources of program information; and program application deadlines.

Once the user has located one or more promising sources of funding, he or she should examine a well-formulated checklist of program application procedure steps included in the introductory section of the Catalog. The checklist covers many important considerations regarding a program as a potential funding source and the appropriateness/desirability of filing an application with a particular program office. The Introduction also includes two new features: 1) two charts, one diagramming the application procedure from location of a program in the agency index to submission of the final application, the other providing a detailed, understandable description of the A-95 Notification and Review System; and 2) a very useful seven-page summary of the planning/preparation in the development of a successful grant application, "Suggestions for Proposal Writing and Following Grant Procedures."

ALA Washington Newsletter. Issued by the Washington, D.C. Office of the American Library Association (Box 54, 110 Maryland Avenue, N.E., Washington, D.C. 20002), irregular, minimum of twelve issues annually. Subscription, $10.00 per year.

The ALA Washington Newsletter provides up-to-date information on the status of library-related legislation, funding authorizations and appropriations, new library and library-related programs, and other legislative issues that have impact on library programs and services.

American Library Association, Washington, D.C. Office. Legislative Report of the ALA Washington Office, issued semi-annually.

The Report is a summary of Federal legislation and legislative activity relative to library programs and services over a six-month period. Excellent features are the appended listing of Federal library-related programs and the status report on Federal legislation of interest to libraries. The Report and the ALA Washington Newsletter are excellent sources for anyone who wants up-to-date information on Federal support for library programs.

Annual Register of Grant Support, 1978/79, 12th edition. Chicago, Marquis Academic Media, Marquis Who's Who, 1978. $52.50 (revised annually). 736 p.

One of the most comprehensive sources of non-repayable financial support, this guide directs the user to approximately 2,400 programs including those applicable to libraries. Each description includes: information on the type, purpose and duration of the grant; amount of funding available; eligibility requirements; number of applicants and recipients in the most recent year for which statistics are available; application procedures and deadlines; personnel of the funding organization with the address, founding date and telephone number; data concerning the interests of the organization as well as cooperative funding programs. Four indices make the information readily accessible.

The A-V Connection: The Guide to Federal Funds for A-V Programs, 1979 edition. Fairfax, Virginia, National Audio-Visual Association, 1979. $20.00. 225 p. (National Audio-Visual Association, 3150 Spring Street, Fairfax, Virginia 22030).

Detailed information is included on 40 U.S. Office of Education programs that NAVA has identified as likely funding sources for purchase of audiovisual equipment and materials. Comprehensive information about each program is presented in a standard format similar to the Catalog of Federal Domestic Assistance, though the scope has been focused on audio-visual projects and a considerable amount of useful material not in the CFDA has been added.

The Bowker Annual of Library and Book Trade Information, 24th edition, 1979. Edited and compiled by Filomena Simora with Nada Beth Glick. New York, R. R. Bowker, 1979. $24.95.

A regular feature of the Bowker Annual is a section on library legislation, funding and grants. Federal legislation and Federal library programs are discussed in some detail. An overview of Federal library-related programs is followed by a discussion of foundation support for libraries and a listing of foundations that have funded library projects during the previous year.

Case, Sara, Federal Grants: Where in the Bureaucracy to Find Them; A Brief Guide to Selected Federal Grants, 2nd edition. Washington, D.C., ALA Washington Office, 1977.

This guide to 27 Federal library-related programs includes a detailed description of the parameters of each program listing eligibility requirements, types of projects funded, amount of funding available, and where to write for additional information on the program. One feature of the guide is its table of contents which indicates where the funding decisions are made for each program -- i.e., State agency, local governing agency, or Federal agency in Washington, D.C. American Libraries, November 1977 issue contains listing of Federal and private sources of library funding compiled by Sara Case entitled, "Grants and How to Get Them: An Update."

Catalog of Federal Education Assistance Programs, --1978, U.S. Office of Education, Washington, D.C., Government Printing Office, published annually. $6.25.

This Catalog is based on the Catalog of Federal Domestic Assistance and contains descriptions of programs administered by the U.S. Office of Education and other Federal agencies that support educational services, professional training or library services. Programs are indexed by program name keywords, authorizing Act, public law, U.S. code, administering agency, eligible applicants, and general program key words.

Cawley, Rebecca, compiler. Guide to Funding Sources for American Indian Library and Information Services, Washington, D.C., U.S. Department of the Interior; Minneapolis Minnesota, National Indian Education Association; November, 1974, 70p.

Program descriptions of 30 Federal programs and six private foundations are included in this Guide. Federal program information follows the general form and scope of the Catalog of Federal Domestic Assistance. Most of the Federal programs listed for FY 1974 are currently active, and are likely funding sources for library projects.

Commerce Business Daily, U.S. Department of Commerce, Washington, D.C., Government Printing Office. Published daily excluding Saturdays, Sundays and Holidays. $105.00 first class mail.

The Daily is a listing of U.S. Government procurements invitations, contract awards, subcontracting leads, sales of surplus property and foreign business opportunities. Request for Proposal (RFP) notices relative to contracts for library-related activities, studies, etc., occasionally appear in the Daily.

Educational Media Yearbook, 1978. James W. Brown, editor. New York, R. R. Bowker, 1978. $25.00.

A comprehensive "Directory of Funding Sources" is included in the Yearbook, listing sources of funding for audio-visual, instructional technology, library and telecommunications projects. The Directory includes information on over 90 foundations, listing contact information and types of media programs supported in recent years. An annotated listing of Federal agencies that support media programs is included; information on specific programs is not mentioned, however. A selected, annotated bibliography of books, periodicals, directories and organizations that provide grant and contract information services is quite useful.

Elnor, Nancy. While You're Up, Get Me a Grant: a Basic Bibliography on Grants, compiled by Nancy Elnor, Elizabeth Katz and Martha Powers. 2nd printing, 1976. 10p. Bay Area SRRT, 2745 Stuart #3, Berkeley, CA 94705. $1.50.

Intended as a starting point for persons interested in library grant programs, this bibliography includes references to directories, books on grantsmanship, foundations, resource centers, special collections in libraries (principally California) and library fund-raising sources. Most entries have a brief annotation describing the service or special feature of the item described.

Federal Register. Washington D.C., Office of the Federal Register, National Archives and Records Service. (for sale by Superintendent of Documents, U.S. Government Printing Office) $50/yr.

Published daily except Saturday, Sunday and Federal holidays, the Federal Register is a publication established in the 1930s by Congress to inform the public about regulations of the Executive Branch and independent agencies of the U.S. Government. It provides information on changes in rules and regulations, proposed rules and regulations, and deadlines for submitting projects under specific grant or contract programs. It is indexed monthly, quarterly and annually. The Office of Education is required by law to list all closing dates for its projects in the Federal Register. Individual copies of an issue of the Federal Register are sometimes available free from your Congressman or Senator.

Grants Register, 1979-1981. 6th edition. Ronald Turner, editor. New York, St. Martins Press, 1978. 798p. $26.50.

Published every two years, this publication provides information on scholarships, fellowships, research grants, exchange opportunities, grants-in-aid, competitions, and other awards offered by government agencies, international, national and private organizations. Primarily, it is intended for graduate and post-graduate level students. The coverage is international with emphasis on English-speaking countries. Each entry includes descriptive information about the award, requirements for eligibility, how to apply, and an address to contact for further information.

The Grantsmanship Center News. Published six times a year by the Grantsmanship Center, 1015 West Olympic Boulevard, Los Angeles, California 90015. $15.00.

Selected topics relative to public and private funding sources are discussed at length in each issue of the News. Regular features present useful information for the grant seeker: Funding Notes, brief news items about government and private funding; Federal Regulations Summary, brief summaries of program guidelines published in the Federal Register; Deadlines, filing deadlines for Federal grant programs; and New Publications, annotated listing of grants-related publications.

Hillman, Howard. The Art of Winning Government Grants, by Howard Hillman and Kathryn Natale. New York, Vanguard Press, 1977.

Hillman's book is included in this Section because it has a comprehensive, annotated list of 66 sources of information regarding government and private funding (Information Sources, pages 118-191). The information is up-to-date and includes a number of sources not listed in this Section that the reader may want to examine.

U.S. Office of Management and Budget, Federal Program Information Branch. The Federal Assistance Programs Retrieval System (FARPS).

FAPRS is not a publication, but is a computer data-base service permitting on-line, interactive searching of the Federal funding sources contained in the Catalog of Federal Domestic Assistance. FAPRS is designed to provide information to local communities on the current rural/urban development programs for which the communities are eligible. Persons may query the system using computer terminals in a number of Federal, State and multi-county organizations. For information on FAPRS, contact: FAPRS, Office of Management and Budget, Budget Review Division, Federal Program Information Branch, Washington, D.C. 20503; telephone: (202) 395-3112.

United States Government Manual. Office of the Federal Register, National Archives and Records Service. Washington, D.C., Government Printing Office, published annually. 1979/80, $7.50.

The Manual provides a description of the purpose and programs of most government agencies and a list of the administrative personnel for each agency included. Name, subject and agency indices provide good access points to all of the agency information.

U.S. Office of Education. Direct, Discretionary Grant Programs: Closing Dates for Transmittal of Applications for Fiscal Year 1980. (Federal Register, August 23, 1979, pt. 2) Washington, D.C. pp. 49574-49618.

Periodically the Federal Register publishes this announcement of closing dates for OE grant programs. It first lists in chronological order the closing dates of the programs, then a list of programs for which closing dates are not yet available, and finally a detailed description of application procedures on all programs listed, arranged in order by closing date.

U.S. Office of Education. Guide to OE-Administered Programs. Annual, published in American Education early each calendar year; reprinted for distribution by OE.

This guide groups all Office of Education programs into four major categories: 1) Institutional support; 2) Individual support; 3) Research support; and 4) Construction support. It is arranged in simple graphic style showing type and purpose of assistance, authorizing legislation, appropriation, who may apply, and where to apply.

III. FEDERAL LIBRARY PROGRAMS

This Section includes information on nine Federal programs that provide support exclusively for library services and activities. Program descriptions present basic information on the purpose, scope and size of the program, who may apply, and where to apply. If the reader has an interest in any of the programs listed, contact the appropriate administering agency for additional information. Agencies will generally supply program guidelines and listings of previously funded projects and will discuss the appropriateness of a particular project to the program scope and priorities.

FY 1980 program obligations are projected, not approved amounts, unless otherwise noted.

Indices that permit a multiple access approach to each of the programs listed in this Section and in Section IV are included in Section VI of the Directory.

IV. FEDERAL LIBRARY-RELATED PROGRAMS

This Section presents information on 76 library-related Federal programs. Libraries are eligible for each of the programs listed, but must meet the purpose, scope and program priorities in order to be considered for funding. These programs permit potential projects to take an imaginative approach to library services and activities for diverse user groups. In fact, a totally imaginative approach is the only way in which libraries will qualify for some of the included programs.

Libraries should examine areas of service that lend themselves to joint projects that may be developed with other institutions which qualify for funding support. This approach broadens the potential funding base and may produce innovative projects that will strengthen the services of all participating institutions.

FY 1980 program obligations are projected, not approved amounts, unless otherwise noted.

Contact the appropriate administering agency for further information regarding any of the programs listed in this Section or in Section III.

| PROGRAM (CFDA NO.) AUTHORIZATION | Adult Education (13.400)Adult Education Act, Title III, P.L. 91-230, as amended by the Education Amendments of 1978; P.L. 95-561 | Appalachian Regional Development (23.002)Appalachian Regional Development Act of 1965, P.L. 89-4, Section 214, as amended |
| PURPOSE | To expand educational opportunities so that all adults may continue their education to the level of completion of secondary school and, to make available the means to secure training that will enable adults to become more employable, productive, and responsible citizens. Special emphasis is given to programs of instruction in computational skills and in speaking, reading, and writing the English language for adults whose inability to do such constitutes a substantial impairment of their ability to train for, obtain and retain employment. Amended Act includes three national discretionary programs: grants for development, evaluation and dissemination projects; extension of the Emergency Adult Education Program for Indochina Refugees; and a new adult education program for immigrants. Program is suitable for joint funding with other closely related Federal programs. | To provide supplemental funds (or entire grant when Federal funds are unavailable) to increase Federal grants-in-aid programs for construction of community development facilities that meet the basic needs of local areas, such as water and sewer systems, industrial sites, recreation centers, libraries, etc. To be eligible, projects must be included in State's Appalachian development plan. Program is suitable for joint funding with other closely related Federal programs. |
| ELIGIBILITY REQUIREMENTS | Designated State educational agencies able to match Federal funds on a formula basis. Any State desiring to receive its allotment must submit an Annual Program Plan for approval by the Commissioner of Education.Local educational agencies and private nonprofit agencies may apply to State adult education director for project funding to benefit adults 16 years of age and over with less than 12th grade level competency and/or secondary school certificate. | States, and through States, their subdivisions and instrumentalities, and private nonprofit agencies in designated counties in Appalachian areas. At least 20 percent of the eligible development costs must be obtained from sources other than the Federal Government. |

| PROGRAM (CFDA NO.) AUTHORIZATION | Arts Education Program (13.566)Special Projects Act, Title IV, Section 409 of the Education Amendments of 1974, P.L. 93-380, as amended by the Education Amendments of 1978, Title III, Part C, P.L. 95-561 | Basic Skills Improvement (13.599)*Elementary and Secondary Education Act of 1965, Title II, as amended by the Education Amendments of 1978, Title II, Parts A-C, P.L. 95-561 |
| PURPOSE | To encourage the establishment of arts education programs in elementary and secondary schools. Funds may be used to establish, conduct, or improve arts education programs that are designed to involve all students at all grade levels in the school(s) served; b) address the spectrum of major art forms, including dance, music, drama, visual arts, and c) integrate the major arts into the regular educational curricula. Funds may also be used to provide developmental and technical assistance for such art education programs in public schools, and for reimbursement of art groups and organizations for assistance in planning and conducting programs. Funds may go to State and local educational agencies, and other public and private agencies, organizations, and institutions including museums, libraries, and theaters. | The program replaces the Right to Read program — Elimination of Illiteracy (13.533)*. It coordinates basic skills programs at the national, State, and local levels in order to improve academic achievement, expanding the focus to include oral/ written communication and mathematics as well as reading skills. Among the programs authorized are: improvement of instruction in basic skills; parental participation in basic skills instruction, including development and dissemination of materials the parents may use in the home to improve their children's performance in those skills; encouragement in the use of television and other technology to improve basic skills instruction; State programs of basic skills improvement; and book distribution programs such as the Inexpensive Book Distribution Program for Reading Motivation (see under program heading). |
| ELIGIBILITY REQUIREMENTS | State Departments of Education, institutions including museums, libraries, and theaters, public and private agencies, and organizations. Trust Territories may apply as State educational agencies; criteria for State-level grants govern applications. Any State educational agency applying for a grant must submit a State plan for the arts, if available. Applicants must provide review copies of application to appropriate State education agency and State Alliance for the Arts Education Committee (if one exists). | Any State Department of Education in the U.S. or its possessions; any public or nonpublic school or school district officially recognized by the State Department of Education; an accredited college or university, or a community agency eligible to receive Federal funds (including libraries). |

| PURPOSE | To support basic and applied research in information science to advance understanding of the properties and structure of information and to contribute to the store of scientific knowledge applicable to the design of information processing systems. Preference in given to research which is fundamental and general, and to applied research which is concerned with scientific and technical information rather than, for example, with business information of mass communication. Research proposals in four specific categories are considered: 1) standards and measures; 2) structure of information; 3) behavorial aspects of information transfer; and 4) infometrics. | The program provides support to: 1) help ease the increasing operating costs museums must bear as a result of their increasing use by the public; 2) encourage and assist museums in their educational and conservation roles; and 3) assist museums in modernizing their facilities so that they may be better able to conserve our cultural, historic, and scientific heritage.The program provides operational, and project grants to museums which show need or make a case for program support. At least 75 percent of funds will be spent for operational support. |
| ELIGIBILITY REQUIREMENTS | Professional scientific and technical societies, colleges and universities, profit and nonprofit institutions and organizations. | Any museum located in the States and Territories, a public or private nonprofit agency, such as a municipality, college or university, which is responsible for the operation of a museum may apply on behalf of the museum. A museum is defined by the Act as a public or private nonprofit institution which is organized on a permanent basis for essentially educational or aesthetic purposes and which, using a professional staff, owns or uses tangible objects, whether animate or inanimate, cares for these objects, and exhibits them to the public on a regular basis. A museum must have at least one staff member, paid or unpaid who devotes his time primarily to the acquisition, care or exhibition of objects. |

| PURPOSE | To encourage students and other young persons to initiate and conduct humanities projects. Grants are awarded for research, education, film, and community projects in one or more of the fields in the humanities: history, philosophy, language, linguistics, literature, archeology, jurisprudence, art history, etc. Funds may be used to cover participants' stipends, adviser honoraria, travel, supplies and materials, clerical support, and rental of space and equipment. General educational or training expenses, performance or creative works in the arts, construction and purchase of equipment are not eligible for funding. | To support through fellowships, graduate or professional study for persons who plan to pursue a career in public service (Part C) and to assist institutions of higher education to establish, strengthen, and improve programs of public service education (Part A), including the preparation for leadership and management careers in all levels of government and careers in nonprofit community agencies. Program grants may be used for faculty improvement, curriculum development, cooperative arrangements, strengthening administration, or acquisition of instructional equipment and materials. |
| ELIGIBILITY REQUIREMENTS | Entities of State and local governments, nonprofit U.S. organizations, academic institutions and individuals who are U.S. citizens, native residents of U.S. territorial possessions, or foreign nationals affiliated with a U.S. organization or who have been residents in the U.S. for at least three years immediately preceding the date of the application. Youthgrants are normally awarded for projects developed by young persons in their teens and early twenties. Youthgrants may not be awarded to anyone over the age of 30. | For Part A and C grants, any accredited institution of higher education with a graduate or professional program of public service education leading to an advanced degree (except a medical degree) is eligible. To obtain Part C fellowships from an institution an applicant must be a citizen or native of the U.S. or, if an alien, have permanent resident status, and must be accepted by an approved institution as a candidate for an advanced degree. |

| PROGRAM (CFDA NO.) AUTHORIZATION | Public Telecommunications Facilities (11 550)* Communications Act of 1934, Title III, Part IV, as amended by the Public Telecommunications Financing Act of 1978, Title I, P.L. 95-567 | Public Works Employment Act (No CFDA #) Public Works Employment Act of 1976, Title I, Local Public Works Program, P.L. 94-369 |
| PURPOSE | To assist in planning/ construction of public telecommunications facilities in order to: 1) provide new facilities to extend service to unreached areas; 2) expand telecommunications services and facilities available to and operated/ owned by minorities and women; and 3) to improve the capabilities of existing public television and radio stations. This program replaces the Educational Broadcasting Facilities Program under the Office of Libraries and Learning Resources (13.413).* | To increase employment in high unemployment areas through direct grants to local government for public works and public service projects. Two rounds of funding have allocated a total of $6 billion to local public works projects, including a number of library construction projects. Construction is underway as of September 30, 1977, on projects funded in first two rounds. |
| ELIGIBILITY REQUIREMENTS | Matching grants can be awarded to: 1) a public broadcast station; 2) a noncommercial telecommunications entity; 3) a system of public telecommunications entities; 4) a nonprofit foundation, corporation, institution, or association organized primarily for education or cultural purposes; and 5) a State or local government. | Eligibility requirements will be announced if the Public Works Employment Act, Title I, is extended. New legislation is pending for a $2 billion contingency that would go into effect if unemployment reaches 3.5 million. |

| PURPOSE | To increase the knowledgeable participation of scientists and nonscientists in the resolution of public policy issues involving science and technology. The focus is on providing scientific expertise to the public promptly and where it is needed most. Funds may be used to pay for costs necessary for research or studies, expendable equipment and supplies, and publication costs. Projects must have adequate access to scientific and technical information and expertise at an appropriate level, and be prepared to show citizens how such information can be of use to them. They must provide balanced and objective presentation of the issues. Also provides funding for forums, conferences, workshops, community discussions, etc. on the subject of science and technology. | To provide and promote useful part-time work opportunities for low income persons who are 55 years old and older, and who have poor employment prospects. Participants may work up to 20 hours per week in community service activities. Program is suitable for joint funding with other closely related Federal programs. |
| ELIGIBILITY REQUIREMENTS | Public and private colleges and universities, independent nonprofit organizations, professional societies. A preliminary proposal must be submitted before a formal proposal is developed. | States and agencies of the State, national public and private nonprofit agencies and organiztions, and U.S. Territories. | PURPOSE | To improve the quality of service for programs to older Americans by insuring qualified persons to staff aging programs. Programs may be improved through development of in-service training, career training, curriculum materials, and related activities for persons preparing to work in the field of aging. The Administration on Aging has identified library science as one of a number of disciplines that would be appropriate for inclusion in such a training program. (The training program comprises 12 separate programs.) Program is suitable for joint funding with closely related Federal programs. | To meet the needs of elementary and secondary school students, this program assists local educational agencies and institutions of higher education in operating teacher centers designed to improve school curricula and provide for in-service development of teachers. |
| ELIGIBILITY REQUIREMENTS | State agencies on aging, State and local educational agencies, institutions of higher education, and other public or nonprofit private agencies, organizations or institutions may apply for a grant. | Local educational agencies and public and private institutions of higher education.
